Title of the Practice: Career Potential Key

Objectives of the Practice:

Through this process, students gain clarity about their current strengths and weaknesses, identify essential skills and traits to develop, and create practical steps for their growth. This empowering experience provides students with a clear map to bridge the gap between where they are now and where they aim to be, instilling confidence and purpose as they embark on their academic and personal journeys.

The Practice:

The Career Development Center (CDC) at IMS Ghaziabad, University Courses Campus, has introduced the CPK (Career Potential Key) for first-year students across all courses, aiming to support students in uncovering their potential and enhancing their personal and professional growth. This self-discovery journey enables students to better understand their unique personalities, strengths, and areas for development, laying a foundation for future success.

The CPK includes four assessments: PAT (Personality Assessment Test - MBTI Adapted), ELA (English Language Assessment), SWOT Analysis, and an Emotional Intelligence assessment. Each test allows students to explore different facets of themselves, helping them identify hidden qualities and discover ways to build on their personal strengths. Faculty members provide one-on-one guidance, helping students interpret the results and identifying areas where improvement is needed.

Evidence of Success:

This process fosters self-awareness, a critical factor for personal and professional success, and helps students identify essential skills and traits to develop. Guided one-on-one faculty support ensures students effectively interpret their results and create actionable growth plans. Ultimately, the CPK empowers students to confidently bridge the gap between their current state and future goals, setting them on a purposeful journey of academic, personal, and professional excellence
